About Florence Broadhurst

Florence Broadhurst (1899–1977) is the original maximalist. Her designs celebrate scale, colour and rhythm with complete confidence, bringing an unmistakable theatricality to every interior they touch. She is confident, courageous, elegant, flamboyant and entirely original.

Born in Queensland, Florence first performs as a singer across Asia. She draws on all of that life experience to be her best in everything that follows. In 1959 she founds her wallpaper business at St Leonards, Sydney, where her hand-printed papers become known for large, bold patterns and vivid colour. Her work is exported to North America, England and Paris. By the 1970s, her designs number around 800.

Found in museums and galleries, her designs are loved by everyone from Australian Prime Ministers to Hollywood movie stars, yet they are just as at home in your living room. A Florence Broadhurst design can be as simple as a few cushions, a favourite armchair or a headboard, right through to curtains for a whole room.

The Australian Museum of Design makes her work easy to bring home. Her designs are printed to order on 100% Belgian Linen and sold by the metre, so you can buy just what your project needs. You can order a small sample first to see the colour and the cloth in your own light.
